PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William (an Indian remedy) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment; I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

For sale by George T. Wood or mailed on receipt of price, $1.

HENRY & CO., Sole Prop'rs,
62 Vesey Street, N. Y.

Skin Diseases Cured

BY DR. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cure as if by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures: itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Sent by mail on receipt of price, fifty cents

HENRY & CO., Sole Prop'rs,
62 Vesey Street, N. Y.

For blind, bleeding, itching or ulcerated piles, Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is a sure cure. Price $1, by mail. For sale by George T. Wood, druggist.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a diamond-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

MRS. M. MARTIN, Cleveland, O.
Sold by George T. Wood, at $1 per bottle.

Clay and the Massachusetts Delegation.

It was in the role of the compromiser that Clay appeared to the greatest advantage combating the extremists of the North and the extremists of the South, and the organization of the Territories acquired by the Mexican war, when Congress sat uninterruptedly from the first Monday of December, 1849, to September 30, 1850, gave him an opportunity to display his talents in that regard, trying to find some satisfactory middle ground for adjustment. A stranger at times would have thought he was at war with the whole Senate, there being no one to take his part. But he never lost his courage nor his hope. After one of his days of severe conflict, he took his seat at the dinner table without saying a word to any one of us. Senator Berrien said:

"Mr. Clay, why don't you speak? Are you angry at everybody?"

"That's just it," said Mr. Clay. "I can not say that I am angry at any one in particular. I think I am angry at every one. Here is our country upon the very verge of civil war, which every one pretends to be anxious to avoid, yet every one wants his own way, irrespective of the interests and wishes of others. And when I sat down to the table the thought struck me that around me were gathered men representing different extremes, who had influence enough to settle the entire matter. Come, gentlemen, go to my parlor after dinner and let me lock you all in, and I, remaining outside, will agree to present any plan of conciliation that you may agree upon, to the Senate and advocate it. Here is Judge Conrad, of New Orleans, Judge Berrien, of Georgia, Wentworth, from Chicago," and so he went on naming us all as his special committee. But we did not meet. About this time a committee of the prominent citizens of Boston, interested in manufacturing, met him in the public parlor and solicited his aid in securing more favorable legislation upon the tariff. Before a large number of people he broke out in this way:

"Don't talk to me about tariff when it is doubtful whether we have any country. Go and see your Massachusetts delegation and urge them to lay aside their sectional jealousies, to cease exasperating the South, and to cultivate a spirit of peace. Save your country, and then talk about your tariff."

The Boston gentlemen were shocked. They did not expect such a reception, and were bold to say so to some of Mr. Clay's best friends. The next day, as he entered the dining-room, he saw them sitting at a table by themselves, and, taking a seat by them, he thus spoke:

"I feel greatly encouraged in this day's proceedings. We have had several favorable test votes, and it looks as if we had all the extremists at bay. Stay a few days and mollify some of the fanatics in your Massachusetts delegation. But, if you must go, leave all your papers in my parlor, and use it as your headquarters to write out what you desire of me. Let this trouble once be settled and your industries shall be brought to the most prosperous condition."

Then the Boston gentlemen received a shock of another kind, and you could hear them saying:

"Was there ever such another man? With what zeal does he advocate every cause he embraces?"—Long John Wentworth's Lecture.

A lady near this place had her teeth extracted by Dr. Campbell, as preliminary to inserting an artificial set. While the dentist was waiting for the gums to cicatrize, nature itself usurped his office and supplied the lady with a perfectly new and sound set of teeth.—Monterey Recorder.

A Colored Gath.

There is a negro boy employed at Buhr's Hotel, Frankfort, Ky., to make fires, black boots and render himself generally useful. His peculiarity is to exploit his personal acquaintances with people. He is a sort of "Gath" in ebony.

"What is your name, boy?"

"Julius," he replied.

"Any kin to Julius Caesar?" (wishing to be facetious at his expense, and there being a listener or two within hearing).

"Oh, no; Julius Caesar was my mammy's old master." (Julius is as black as midnight in the gasless Valley of Frankfort).

"Was, eh?"

"Yes; lived on Elkhorn, six miles from heer. I 'member him well. He only died a few years ago."

"He died in the Capitol, I believe?"

"No, he died heer; it was 'fore de Capitol was bilt." (Julius was evidently thinking of the Capitol Hotel).

"Did you ever see Brutus?" I continued.

(Pausing a moment to reflect)—"You mean de nigger that was killed at the depot? Yes, I knew him. Used to haul down dar, and got run over by de cars."

"What of Cassius; did you ever see him?"

(Hesitatingly)—"You mean de nigger dat was sent up? Ya, I knew him. Went to the Pen'tentiary for stealin' a coat. He died dar, I thinks."

"You seem to have a large acquaintance, Julius, and must know Marc Antony?"

"Guess I does" (not looking up, but giving extra energy to the brush). "Giv him an extra shine yesterday mornin'. Paid me a nickel with a hole in it. Meanest man in Frankfort."

"Did you see Cleopatra when here last?"

"You mean de woman wat played in de theater? Yes, indeed, boss; she stopped here in dis house. Mighty nice woman."

A gentleman to whom I related this confabulation with Julius told me that the boy was bragging to him one morning about his knowledge of horses. He asked him if he ever saw Alexander's Bucephalus. "Over in Woodford?" he answered; "yes, indeed. I broke him when a colt. I was the first boy that ever straddled him."—Cincinnati Commercial.

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

Nitocris, the spouse of Nebuchadnezzar, is described by M. Baudrillard as the soul of his works, and to her is attributed the design of the lake named after her, which served the double purpose of a fortification and a dam against the Euphrates when in flood. The famous hanging gardens are also attributed to female influence, to the longing of a Median Princess, born in a more elevated region, for the coolness and shade of her native mountains. There were five of these gardens, about four English acres each, on terraces supported by columns and covered with mold thick enough for the largest trees to take root in. One of the columns was hollow, and contained a hydraulic machine to raise the required quantity of water. In fact, the art of gardening, with all its modern appliances, including irrigation and the transplantation of grown trees, was practiced in Babylon as effectively as in the Bois de Boulogne or Hyde Park.

BALTIMORE papers do it in this wise: Here rests his head upon the lap of earth; a youth to fortune and to fame unknown. Too much benzine crept underneath his girth, and played the mischief with his temperate zone.—Bloomington Eye.

THAT apostle of equal rights, the editor of the Republican, who came here with the sole object, it seems, of preaching the doctrine not only of "negro equality," but even that of "negro superiority," had better return from whence he came. From appearances and reports, we are inclined to believe that his converts are but "few and far between." With the knowledge we have at present, we are not able to decide why he has not been more successful in this "glorious work." It may be that he, like many other advocates of such causes, fails to "practice what he preaches." From what we have heard, we believe that this is his sole cause of failure. The people cannot believe him to be sincere when he fails to "do as he would have others do," and acts not in accordance with his avowed principles. We believe the negro enjoys as many privileges in the south as he does in the North. We further believe the aforesaid editor and apostle could find as good, if not a better field for his labors, further north, in Boston, Mass., for instance. We learn that a certain colored ex-congressman from the south, was actually refused entertainment at one of the leading hotels of that city, a few days ago. We suppose that he, like the editor of the Republican probably, thought that when one got as far north as "culchawed" Boston, he would find "negro equality" one of the leading features of the locality, and we can faintly imagine such a one's surprise, chargin and disappointment, at not finding such the case. Let the editor of the Republican gather up his papers and start forthwith for Boston. We believe he could find a glorious field in that region in which to disseminate his doctrines. "Let him go."

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.
For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.
The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

* SINCE our representative in Congress, Hon. E. C. Phister, has declined to be a candidate for reelection, we will soon begin to find out how many "true patriots" there are in the district, who are willing to serve the "dear people" in that capacity at Washington—for six thousand dollars a year.—We have already heard of one, but, as he's to be the "dark-horse" in the race, we will not mention his name now.

As it is his first attempt to achieve editorial honors, we hope our readers will bear with us in patience, and overlook any faults they may chance to find.

Nesting Tobacco.

The following is from the Western Tobacco Journal:

J. B. Casey, Cincinnati's vigilant Tobacco Inspector, entered suit before Squire Johnson last Wednesday against G. W. Elrod, of Ripley, Ohio, for the recovery of $160 00, the claim being based upon nested tobacco shipped to and sold in this market by the defendant. Under the laws governing the Cincinnati Tobacco Association it becomes the duty of the Inspector to draw samples from each hoghead offered for sale, and to make restitution to the purchaser in the case the tobacco thus sold does not agree with sample, the Inspector having recourse against the shipper. Another warrant was sworn out on Thursday against Elrod by Robt. Hamilton, a manufacturer of Covington, Ky., demanding his arrest on the charge of nesting tobacco, which was purchased by the said Hamilton. In the latter case Elrod was required to give bond in the sum of $1,000, with Henry Marks, of Leon, Marks & Co., of this city, as surety, to answer before Squire Johnson at ten o'clock on the 22d inst., of which full particulars will be given in our succeeding issue, as it was found necessary to postpone proceedings to next Friday, the 26th inst., at 2 p. m. The case of Inspector Casey was held over for trial to Monday, the 29th inst., at 10 a. m. Both Hamilton and Elrod have secured the best legal talent, Messrs. Hoadly, Johnson and Colston, representing the plaintiff, and Ramsey, Mathews & Ramsey, the defendant.

The following letter taken from the Courier-Journal needs no explanation.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Judge Phister, of Maysville, has replied to constituents asking him to become a candidate for re-nomination. In a letter addressed "to the voters of the late Tenth, now the Ninth, Congressional District of Kentucky":

In response to many urgent requests from all parts of the district to me to become a candidate for re-nomination and re-election, I take occasion to express my intention not to be a candidate. This is done with sincere gratitude for the honor of two unanimous nominations by the democrats, and for their earnest support, and that of many liberal-minded citizens of other parties, in twice electing me to Congress, and for the generous confidence in me always manifested by the people of the district. I shall ever hold them in grateful remembrance. Very respectfully, E. C. PHISTER, May 20, 1882.

Sales of Land.

The following changes in the ownership of land have been recorded at the office of the Clerk of the County Court, since our last report:

Thomas Sweeney and wife to Wm. Hill and others, eighty-five acres of land on Pummell Creek, consideration, $1,900.

Jos. F. Kirk and wife to James N. Kirk, one hundred and seventeen acres of land, on the Lexington turnpike near Maysville, Ky., consideration, $2,000, cash and other valuable considerations.

James M. Harding and wife to Cordelia A. Stephens one lot on Fourth street in the Fifth Ward, Maysville, Ky., consideration, $1, love and affection.

John R. Tarleton and wife to Aaron Gough, colored, one acre of land, near Murphysville Ky., consideration, $40.

Joseph H. Dodson and wife to Benjamin Smith, colored, East half of lot No. 46, in the Fifth Ward, Maysville, Ky., consideration, $300.

David Dickson to Thomas F. Stephens, one lot on the corner of Third and Walnut streets, in the Fifth Ward, Maysville, Ky., consideration, $250.

Turf Items.

Hedges bay stallion, J. B. Thomas, winner in the 2:17 class last Friday, will trot at Rochester, N. Y., on the 4th of July for a purse of $10,000. Harvey's Voltaire, of Cincinnati will be one of his competitors.

The famous racer, Iroquois, that ruptured a blood-vessel the other day, ought to be retired by his owners and let live in ease, the rest of his days. His winnings as a two and three-year-old amounted to nearly $100,000.

Runnymede won the Clark stakes at Louisville, Monday, over her competitors, Babcock, Apollo (the winner of the Derby last week), Harvey Gilmore, and Freeland. The Clarke stake was worth about $3,500 to the winner.

The winnings of Foxhall, the racer, amounted to $53,641 in one year. If a fellow had two or three horses of this kind, he'd be "better off" financially, than if he were president.

"Will Robin Ever Return?" is the title of the latest song, Marian Wheeler, being the author. If Robin is at the Louisville races, Marian, he will get back all right. In case the walking is bad, his return may be delayed somewhat, but eventually you will see him again.—Chicago Tribune.

On Tuesday, the 23rd inst., J. M. Mitchell, of Mayslick precinct, had thirty-four hands employed in setting out tobacco.

Some Causes of Heart Disease.

In answer to the query, if deaths by disease of the heart are more frequent than formerly, a New York exchange gives a brief answer by directing the attention of young people, especially, to some common facts. There is an increase of heart trouble, as there always would be in feverish and hurried lives. Many lives are intense enough to strain the whole human system, and increase and hurry the circulation and finally weaken it. A prominent English physician has written his experience in the matter of athletic exercises. Young men, boys who are not fully developed, strain their young muscles, hurry their breathing and circulation, whether by athletic games or rowing. Of those who consulted him, he found hardly one who had a sound heart. The heart had been overworked, had been compelled to pump the blood faster than it could bear, and its power as a heart was impaired for life. It was older than the rest of the body. All excessive muscular exertion makes mischief with young people, before the frame is hardened and compacted by time. The effects may not appear at once, but will remain in the fact of lessened powers, and premature age, or death. The growing use of what are called nervines or stimulants will increase the tendency to heart trouble. Hurried circulation makes the heart work the harder and wears out the poor pump earlier. Aside from the medicines, which, when taken habitually, are no more medicines (since those are understood to be only remedial measures for disease), the growing use of tobacco is a serious evil. If used at all freely, it most certainly shortens life; and when taken by the young (and boys who are scarcely more than infants are now seen with cigarettes), it prevents full development and dwarfs and twists the whole nervous system. In this weakness the heart shares and many a weak and trembling heart, which finally stops for very weariness, owes its weakness to this powerful and deadly nerve. It does not kill at sight, but none the less it does harm. A monkey will eat tobacco with impunity, but it does not follow that human beings will bear it. And even men are careful about the juice or oil. Keep thy heart with all diligence," may apply to physical no less than to moral well-being.

A Lover's Promise.

Eleven years ago Jacob Widber came to a farm house in Yolo County, California, and applied for work, stating that he had just arrived in the State from Ohio, and was so reduced in purse that he was obliged to depend on manual labor for a subsistence until something offered. He was quite well educated, and in appearance was altogether more prepossessing than the average California laborer. The farmer to whom he applied gave him employment, his duties being to do odd jobs about the place, and to assist the women folks about the house. The latter consisted of the farmer's wife and a daughter about twelve years of age, who was exceedingly pretty and a great favorite in the neighborhood. Young Widber remained on the farm a year, and during the time became very much attached to the little girl, so much so that when he left he kissed her good-by and told her that when he got rich he would come back and claim her as his little wife. To this agreement she laughingly assented, and her "affianced" left for other scenes. Subsequently the father of our heroine sold out his farm and moved with his family to Washington Territory, where he became a permanent resident. After two or three years' residence on this coast Widber returned to his home in Ohio, and one year ago his father died, leaving an estate worth $100,000, to which our hero was sole heir. No sooner had he come into possession of this patrimony than he set out to California to find and claim as his bride the little girl who had given the parting promise ten years ago. He was not long in ascertaining here whereabouts, and lost no time in paying a visit to her at her home, near the Columbia. That the meeting was mutually agreeable is evidenced by the fact that the happy couple, now Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Widber, are living in Ohio.—Yolo Mail.
